Dry stone walls of Jeju Island

Shaza O Hara and Austin Mc Manus

Cello and violin duo perform a haunting collection of traditional Irish airs and melodies.

조환진 Hwan Jin Jo

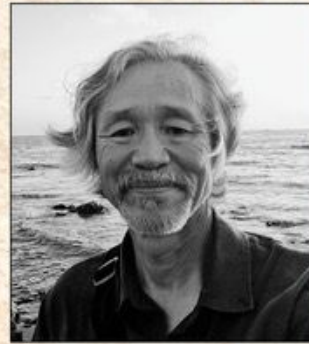

Stonemason, artist and director and principal of Dolbitna school of Art working in partnership with Tír Chonaill Stone Festival and Anú Heritage to deliver the Irish Korean Stone Culture Art Exchange 2022 - 2027

이선재 Sunjea Jay Lee

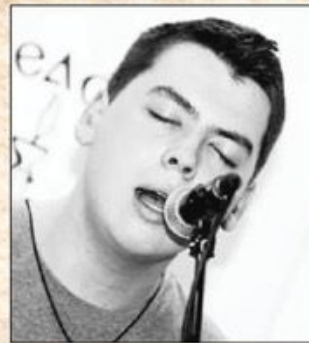

Art and Theatre Director and Interpreter for the evening.

문석범 Seokbeom Moon

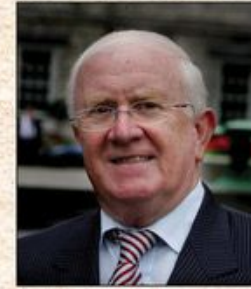

Traditional Jeju folk singer and independent film actor. His songs are passed down through generations and are described as 'a sound drama that weaves and unravels the story of the old days on Jeju Island while people worked on stone walls in the fields and fished in the sea.'

Naoise Mac Cathmhaoil

A young Sean-Nós singer from West Donegal. Sean-Nós or "Old-Style" singing is Ireland's native style of singing; it is an unaccompanied style (Capella), often highly ornamented and melismatic, renowned for its long melodic phrases. Sean-Nós is regarded as a form of storytelling with songs often convey particular themes such as grief, love, hardship, tragedy, work, play and drink.

Donegal connections with Jeju Island, Korea, past and present

Pat 'the Cope' Gallagher retired TD and friend of the family remembers Father Patrick Mc Glinchey.

We celebrate the life of Father P.J. Mc Glinchey (1928 - 2018) born in Raphoe county Donegal. A Columban Missionary who dedicated six decades of service to the people of Jeju Island, Korea where he was assigned as a newly ordained priest in 1953.

Fr.P.J.Mc Glinchey

Struck by the similarities between his native Donegal and the culture of Jeju Island, he said: "Both islands have strong winds, many stone walls, and a similar shape to their thatched houses. Weddings, funeral ceremonies, and traditions are quite similar to each other."

In 1954 on arrival at Jeju Island, Korea

Sharing all the joys and sorrows of the people there, Fr. Mc Glinchey went by the Korean name of Yim Pi-jae. When awarded the highest accolades from both the Irish and Korean State he said "I did nothing to deserve this; it is God's work helped by all the people around."
